ANNEX A

CUBAN PUBLIC STATEMENTS

Cuban radio broadcasts inciting subversion reach Venezuela by Radio Havana's powerful short-wave transmitters. These broadcasts include frequent transmissions of manifestos and statements issued by the anti-Betancourt forces in Venezuela, including especially those of the Communist-controlled Armed Forces for National Liberation (FALN). They thus serve indirectly to support the FALN's effort to communicate its statements throughout Venezuela. In addition, Radio Havana has broadcast numerous other items which serve to incite revolt in Venezuela. The recent speeches by ranking Cuban leaders, including Fidel Castro, Che Guevara, Armando Hart, Blas Roca, and Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, have all made special mention of the Venezuelan "peoples' struggle for liberation" and most if not all of these speeches were rebroadcast on Radio Havana's international service.

Fidel Castro, in his two speeches during January, stressed the importance of guerrilla warfare in the "struggle for liberation" and ridiculed all thought that "liberation from imperialism" can be accomplished except through violence. Of all these recent Cuban speeches, that of Blas Roca on 23 January was the most specific regarding Venezuela. He stated flatly that "we shall continue to give our support, each day in greater proportions, to the Venezuelan people" in their fight. He closed his speech with the prediction that "when the Venezuelan revolution takes place, then all Latin America will be ablaze" and this will be a "tremendous boost for Cuba...we will have a nation on the continent to back us."
